Fight Talk

A dog would rather have a barren bone than a square meal — a fact which tells me I have just learned where the politicians discovered their trade secret.

The union has just announced that the telephone strike scheduled to begin Friday morning has been postponed 60 days. The action was in compliance with a request from President Truman that the workers and the company make one more attempt to get together.

Whether permanent peace or only a 60-day truce, any delay in industrial trouble is good news—particularly at this time.

National business cracks up whenever an impossible load is put upon it, whether by management or labor.

The crackup that ravaged the postwar period at the end of the 1920s was due to mistakes of management — in overcapitalizing on what business the country could actually do.

The danger that faces America in this postwar period is that rank-and-file demands will do now what management demands did 20 years ago.

The telephone argument is only a small part of the whole picture. More serious is the developing labor storm in the coal mines, the automobile factories, and on the railroads.

What's the answer? The only possible answer is a give-and-take policy on both sides. If today's wage dollar doesn't buy as much as the dollar of 20 years ago, neither does the profit dollar.

I heard President Truman's speech from Alexandria, Va., as rebroadcast last night on the occasion of the anniversary of George Washington's birth — and I thought it was one of his best performances.

Some of his critics kid the president because his bifocal glasses give him trouble in reading a prepared speech — but what he said at Alexandria yesterday was clear and concise.

He reminded his fellow Americans that in the person of Soviet Russia we have today an enemy just as tyrannical, implacable, and land-hungry, as was the British king against whom Washington and his Colonials rebelled.

The fact that this danger today is a physical, geographical danger—rather than a mere ideological preaching of Communism—was the point Mr. Truman drove home.

His speech, it seemed to me, reconciled the average American to the fact that our generation must continue to support heavy governmental expenses as far as national defense is concerned—until Russia either changes her mind and joins the family of nations or dies like a lone wolf.

Bandits Make Big Haul in Jewels

Cleveland, Feb. 23 —(P)—Six hooded bandits boldly burst into the spacious home of multi-millionaire William G. Mather early today, slugged his wife and got away with jewelry valued at between $200,000 and $800,000.

Stationing one man outside in case the burglar alarm went off, the robbers entered the main residence through a servants' entrance. None of the seven servants heard them.

Union Accepts 60-Day Truce in 'Phone Threat

Washington, Feb. 23 —(P)—The threat of a nation-wide breakdown in telephone service, scheduled for tomorrow, has been lifted by union acceptance of a presidential appeal for a 60-day bargaining truce.

"We will bargain every day, 24 hours during that period, in seeking a peaceful settlement," said President Joseph A. Beirne of the CIO Communications Workers of America.

President Truman asked that service remain uninterrupted while work goes on under present wage, hour and other conditions. Some Bell System companies accepted promptly; others were expected to do so.

Beirne quickly pulled his executive board on yesterday's White House proposal. He announced the decision last year, notifying Mr. Truman by wire that the union recognizes its obligation in the "public interest and welfare."

"We have a sincere desire to resolve the issues through collective bargaining in an open, straightforward manner," Beirne said in a statement.

"In accepting President Truman's request for postponement of the strike, we take one more step in our continuing effort to preserve industrial peace."

The long lines division of American Telephone and Telegraph Co. wired the President it would be glad to continue bargaining "in a sincere effort to settle the dispute." The added time, it said, should be "useful in reaching an agreement."

Similar word came from the Western Electric Co., one of the key companies in the dispute, and others. In Atlanta, the Southern Bell Telephone company went a bit further, and suggested the truce run until June 5.

The strike of 100,000 telephone workers had been set for 6 a. m. local time, tomorrow. Another 120,000 phone workers were due to join the walkout on March 1, when their contracts expire; these, too, are covered by the truce.

The President offered the "active assistance of the federal mediation and conciliation service" throughout the bargaining and asked for an "earnest" and "extensive" search for peaceful settlement terms.

But the bargaining was off to a bad start. A stalemate involving Western Electric was still unbroken after 48 hours of effort by Mediation Director Cyrus S. Ching, arranged for negotiations here, starting Tuesday, to cover the manufacturing workers in Western Electric, which is T. T. & T.'s manufacturing subsidiary.

Following is roster of the Hope Junior High school band which will present its annual midwinter concert at the high school auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock.

Fire Destroys Texarkana Chemical Plant

Acting Fire Chief W. M. Lemley said the fire gutted the main building of the International Mineral and Chemical corporation's Texarkana plant. He said the heat was so intense that "we could only confine the fire to the immediate area." Lemley said spontaneous combustion is believed to have caused the blaze.

V. Q. Burns, manager of the plant — which employs 70 persons — said that "at present no accurate estimate of the loss could be obtained but that the damage will run into 'thousands of dollars.'"

The plant manufactures fertilizer.

Sutton Formally Announces for Sheriff

Sheriff Claud Sutton today formally announced his candidacy for re-election to the office of Sheriff and Collector in Hempstead. His statement follows:

"I am a candidate for the office of Sheriff and Collector, subject to the Democratic Primaries this summer. I am asking the people to endorse my record of the past three years by honoring me again with this office."

When I ran for my first term it was my personal desire to serve four years in this office and I so expressed myself. During the past few months I have had such a number of people to solicit me to run again that I feel the majority of the people desire that I continue in this office for another term. For that reason I have decided to seek re-election. And it will be a pleasure to again serve you if you see fit to honor me with this high trust.

I have tried to conduct the business of this office in an honest and efficient manner. As you know, the duties are two-fold. As your Collector it is the job of this office to handle thousands of dollars annually in tax money and to keep your tax records straight. With the help of competent office assistance this business has been handled in an able manner, according to the records of the auditor's office. We have tried to render efficient service to all taxpayers large or small and to assist in every way possible with their personal tax record problems.

We believe that every person who has had such business with our office will say they have been treated with courtesy, respect and efficiency. That has certainly been my aim and I hope I have been successful in this effort. More money is now being handled by your Collector than ever before in the history of the office and I am proud to report to you that the auditorial report shows the business of the office to be in excellent condition.

As the chief county law-enforcement officer it has been my policy to enforce all laws in a firm but courteous manner and with equal and just treatment to all people. I would not want the office if I had to conduct it in any other manner. I have never laid any claim to being a bold and spectacular officer and I do not think it necessary that a man exhibit these qualities to make you a good Sheriff. I have tried to use sound, common business sense and reasoning and the experience gained through dealing with all classes of people in every walk of life. All in all I venture to say I have made far more arrests without the use of force or firearms than arrests made with such means.

During the past three years I have gained considerable experience both as your Collector and your Sheriff. I feel that because of this experience I can serve with greater ability than in the past. And if you feel that I have made you an honest and efficient official and have conducted the business of this office in a manner which meets with your approval, I will be grateful for your continued support in this my campaign for re-election.

CLAUD H. SUTTON

British Voters Cast Ballots Today

London, Feb. 23 —(P)—Britons formed the most important division in the past five years as they lined up to mark their "X" elections was expected as lines for or against re-electing their Socialist government.

A record vote in the national elections was expected as lines formed early and steady streams began moving through polling stations all over this island kingdom. The choice before more than 34,000,000 voters:

Re-election of Prime Minister Clement Attlee's Laborites, pledged to put still more industries under state control; or a return to the Conservative rule of wartime Premier Winston Churchill, who promised to halt nationalization but keep most of Britain's welfare state security measures.

By HAL BOYLE
New York —(P)—America is full of people who want to do something big — but just sit around and talk about it.

Such is the sad life story of Mel Allen, one of the most successful failures in the history of sports.

Mel always yearned to be an athlete, particularly a star baseball player. Today he lets Joe DiMaggio play the game, while he just sits and talks about it.

But there is a golden lining to his cloud. Allen gets between $150,000 and $200,000 a year for his oral exercise. And when he thinks of this career irony, he well might employ a phrase familiar to millions of his fans:

"How about that?"

For at 37 this frustrated outfielder who couldn't even make his college team is one of the highest-paid figures in a new industry—sportscasting. The tools are a voice, a microphone and a knowledge of sports.

"As a kid I woke up every day for sports," said Mel, recalling his hole-in-the-shoe youth down south. "I wasn't good enough to win a baseball letter in the field at the University of Alabama, so I got one by being student manager of the team."

He earned a law degree, too, and passed the bar. But he didn't hang out his shingle. He preferred a job in Birmingham broadcasting football games. The salary: $5 a Saturday—in season.

Allen came to New York as a CBS announcer and soon switched to sports. Now he broadcasts the New York Yankee baseball games. He has a weekly network program of his own, does two newsweek sports-casts a week, the World Series, the all-star games, and special boxing and basketball events.

Coal Operators Make Little Better Offer

The chance — a quick agreement during the day or night on a strike-ending contract — looked slim to government observers sitting in on inconclusive negotiations between Lewis and the coal operators.

There continued to be talk on Capitol Hill that congress might vote power for the President to seize the coal mines and tell the miners to work in them as employees of government. The White House said nothing.

This is Lewis' last chance because tomorrow at 10 a.m. (EST), the United Mine Workers are under orders from Judge Richmond B. Keach to "show cause" why the union shouldn't be found in contempt of court. If the union explanations don't satisfy the judge, there will be a formal hearing Monday on a contempt order.

It was Judge Keach who issued a back-to-work order on February 11 that has been flatly ignored by the miners. They have stayed away from the pits, crying "no contract, no work." Although Lewis instructed them to go back, he, too, may come in for Judge Keach's attention.

Lewis and the operators were deadlocked over new contract terms, despite the peace efforts of conciliation Director Cyrus S. Ching and David L. Cole. Cole is the chairman of the presidential fact-finding board appointed under the Taft-Hartley act emergency strike provisions.

Stromboli Makes More Than Cost the First Bay

Hollywood, Feb. 23 —(P)—The Ingrid Bergman — Roberto Rossellini movie "Stromboli" grossed more than its cost the first day it was shown, say industry sources.

The film cost about $900,000 to make. Hollywood trade papers say the 320 theaters which showed it took in $1,248,000 the first day and estimate the first week's total at about $2,000,000.

Junior Chamber of Commerce in Routine Session

In its regular meeting last night the Junior Chamber of commerce voted to give $25 to aid in bringing Robert Stripling to Hope for an address in April.

Bob Burns was named to get bids on the cost of a weekly bulletin. George Frazier and Tom Fulton will represent the local group at a state board meeting this weekend.

Government spending will be discussed at the next meeting and members were urged to write congressmen in an effort to get the Hoover report adopted.

'Son' Phillips Is Candidate for Sheriff

Another candidate for the office of Sheriff today tossed his hat into the political ring. He is R. D. "Son" Phillips of Blevins. Mr. Phillips was born and raised near Blevins and attended high school there.

He is a farmer and has been all of his life with the exception of the time he spent in the army of the United States during the World War II. He served with the 250th Field Artillery in the European Theater of operations. The 250th spent 276 consecutive days in combat during which time Phillips received wounds that necessitated his hospitalization.

After the war he returned to his home in Hempstead county and continued with the operation of his farm.

"In making this announcement I am mindful of the fact that Hempstead county is populated with people that desire the highest type of law enforcement and that they desire that the person they elect to the office of Sheriff be an honest, conscientious man who will do all that he can to enforce the law."

"Since my return from the Army it has been my ambition to serve the people of Hempstead county as their Sheriff. My ambition to see that Hempstead county be made a model county as far as law enforcement is concerned. With the help and advice of the good people of the County I can accomplish this goal."

"Although I deeply appreciate the many friends with whom I have counseled and sought advice and who have urged me to seek this office I have not been their solicitation alone that has prompted me to run but rather it is the desire to see the laws adequately and properly enforced."

"It is with a great sense of humility and pride that I enter this race and I humbly seek the vote and support of each and ever voter who is interested in seeing the law enforced equally and adequately."

"R. D. 'SON' PHILLIPS"

America Is Full of People Who Want to Do Something But Just Sit, Talk About It

The secret of his success? "To me sports are still glamorous — and always will be. I'm still country boy enough to be thrilled by the personality, and I get as excited as any other fan."

Mel, a handsome 6-foot-one-inch bachelor, lives simply with his parents and brother and likes to cook his own breakfast. Whenever he can, at home or on the road, he works out with the Yankees to keep in shape.

Casey Stengel has this to say about his fielding ability: "You play every hope of the ball perfectly — except for the last one."

Allen is the new president of the Sports Broadcaster association and thinks the standards of "the profession" are getting heir.

"Graham McNamee was the pioneer in sports broadcasting," he said. But we all look upon Ted Husing as the guy who set the modern pattern. Graham emphasized description. Ted was the first to concentrate on accuracy and play by play accounts — as well as color.

"There is still room for tremendous improvement, but in the last ten years announcers around the country have realized they must be accurate above everything else. Today you have to know a game as well as a coach or player does. Television has done that."

Before you buy that gabby son of yours a toy microphone and rules book, listen to Mel on the opportunities in sportscasting.

"There are only 25 jobs in the country a fellow would want to work up to and say, 'this is it — rest of my life.'"

"But, of course, there are a lot of sports announcing jobs that pay a good reasonable living — perhaps 200."

FEPC Bill to Be Voted on Late Today

Washington, Feb. 23 —(P)—A fair employment practices bill with few friends in the Senate will be voted on late today by weary members who toiled to struggle to produce it.

The measure was in danger of being sent to a labor committee for a vote in a committee pigeonhole.

The bill was tentatively passed in the early morning after southern civil rights leaders had filibustered against an anti-lynching measure with a strong backing by President Truman.

The house was scheduled to vote at 3:20 p.m. on a technically forced adjournment after the show-down this time after noon.

Supporters of the administration bill found little to their liking in the substitute measure bearing the name of Rep. McConnell.

Southern Democrats who want any kind of FEPC in indicated they would vote against the McConnell bill, expected strong Republican support — and maybe some Democratic support, as well.

The bill would create a member federal commission to operate with state and local agencies in voluntarily curbing job discrimination against Negroes and other minorities.

The commission would have to investigate and recommend — but it couldn't issue orders — but it couldn't issue orders and get them enforced through federal injunctions, as under the administration bill.

The Dixie members of the Senate since noon Tuesday to action on any kind of bill forced repeated adjournments to force adjournment.

But administration and a sizeable group of Democrats, taking note of the platform promises made by the party, were willing to fight and fight hard.

The administration's floor manager, the upper hand, until about night, when the Southern most forced forced adjournment.

State Begins Case Against Mercy Slayer

Manchester, N. H., Feb. 23 —(AP)—The state said today Dr. Herman N. Sander admitted taking the life of a suffering 59-year-old woman cancer patient with air injections administered at the urging of her husband.

Attorney General William L. Phinney told a jury of 13 men that "the motive behind any determined premeditated killing has no bearing whether it be good or bad — the results are the same."

"Of so-called mercy killings, no such thing exists under law," the prosecutor said in his 34-minute opening statement. "Such action is homicide."

Phinney also said the evidence would show that the 41-year-old country physician administered 10 cubic centimeters of air intravenously four times, and that the patient died within 10 minutes.

He quoted Dr. Sander as saying that she passed away peacefully and quietly after the injections.

During cross-examination of the first state witness, Dr. Harold L. Loverud, president of the staff of the hospital, Defense Counsel Louis E. Wyman indicated the defense may contend the patient already was dead when the injections were made.

The white-haired defense lawyer asked Loverud if another doctor, Albert Snay had seen her at 11:15 a.m., on the day she died before Dr. Sander entered her room before any air injections, and then pronounced her dead; also would he have been able to give

Ground Search Abandoned for Missing Airmen

Vancouver, B. C., Feb. 23 —(AP)—Ground search was abandoned today for five airmen who parachuted last week from a blazing B-36 air force bomber.

The Royal Canadian Air force, announcing end of the search on heavily-timbered Princess Royal island, said a high-speed launch, an airplane and three helicopters would continue to patrol the sea and shorelines.

The U. S. airmen were part of a crew of 17 which parachuted from the ice-coated burning B-36 shortly before midnight Feb. 13. Twelve were rescued.

Dr. Loverud replied "yes." Phinney then questioned Dr. Loverud on indirect examination and asked:

"Do you know of any treatment which involves the introduction of air into the circulatory system by means of a syringe?"

"No sir," was the reply.

"As a doctor can you tell us any reason for injecting air into the veins of a person who is dead?"

"No sir."

"Can you conceive of such a reason?"

"No sir," the doctor repeated.

Phinney then asked the doctor what he had learned in his medical training about the effect of injection of air into the circulatory system.

Dr. Loverud replied:

"We were taught that air injected into the circulation in sufficient amounts would cause death."

As the attorney-general finished with the witness, Wyman jumped to his feet to ask:

"Have you any idea of how much air injected into the veins would cause death?"

"No sir," replied Loverud.

Speaking softly and slowly, Phinney quoted Dr. Sander as saying that he knew he "might have broken a law but that the law was not right x x x and should be changed."

Dr. Sander is charged specifically with killing Mrs. Abbie Borroto by giving her air injections as she lay dying of cancer in Hillsboro county hospital last Dec. 4.

Phinney quoted the doctor as saying this:

"Because of Mr. Borroto's pleadings and because Mr. Borroto was a good friend of his, probably in a moment of weakness he injected the air."

Phinney said that Sander, also in reply to a question from Dr. Robert Biron, county medical referee, said he thought Mrs. Borroto would have lived probably two more days.

Phinney said the statements he quoted came from a conversation in which Dr. Sander "talked freely and voluntarily" to Dr. Biron.

Phinney said that when Dr. Biron inquired about the air injections, Dr. Sander stated "that due to the pleadings of Mr. Borroto to relieve his wife he injected air into Mrs. Borroto's veins."

The attorney general told the jury Dr. Sander told Dr. Biron "he realized the consequences of this procedure." Phinney quoted Sander further as saying that "his conscience was clear" and that "morally he believed he was right."

Phinney said Sander told Dr. Biron that he administered 10 cubic centimeters of air successively four times a total of 40 CC's.

Dr. Sander and Mrs. Sander sat close together behind the defense table approximately 10 feet from the attorney general.

Both listened attentively to every word.

The attorney general told the jury "Dr. Sander said he agreed she (Mrs. Borroto) had died of the air injections."

"This conference between the doctors, Biron and Sander took place in the research library which you saw in the view yesterday in the presence of Miss (Josephine) Connor (hospital librarian) and Mrs. Amelia Ducharme, assistant to Miss Connor," Phinney said.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backaches, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. U. S. Ready to Grant Loan to Slavs

Washington, Feb. 23 —(AP)— The United States is reported about ready to grant an emergency loan to Yugoslavia. The idea is to keep the Yugoslav economy from being strangled by a trade boycott led by Russia.

American officials said the loan—which would be this country's second to Marshal Tito since he broke with Moscow—would be relatively small. It might be $10,000,000 or $15,000,000 to be used for the purchase of U. S. cotton, petroleum and other urgently needed raw materials.

They said that amount still would be extremely helpful to Yugoslavia in its present economic plight.

Confidential reports to the state department indicate there is danger of unemployment in Yugoslav textile mills and other industries unless Tito gets financial help in a hurry.

The Russian-led trade boycott has cut off more than 5 per cent of Yugoslavia's trade with outside countries, including imports of goods and materials required for day-to-day operation.

These reports have spurred consideration of a new loan from the U. S. Export-Import bank.

The state department believes it is essential to keep Tito in power as a symbol of resistance to Moscow domination. Nevertheless, top officials were considerably annoyed by his unexpected blast at the Western democracies last weekend.

In a public speech, Tito challenged the West to make good on its "promises" of economic aid. He added defiantly that Yugoslavia would "rather go barefoot" than sacrifice its Communist principles in return for outside aid.

State department officials commented that Tito was never promised anything except "sympathetic consideration" for his loan requests.

The Tito speech was seen as one more evidence of the increasing squeeze in which Yugoslavia finds itself. That was spurred efforts to send him help.

Besides prompting purely American aid, Tito's outspoken remarks may prod the American-dominated world bank into quick action on his request for a loan of about $25,000,000 for long-range development of his country.

Trust Lawyers Killed Own Case Says A&P

Bradley to Give Testimony to Atom Defense Group
Washington, Feb. 23 (AP)—Lawmakers digging into the question of civil defense in the atomic age called in Gen. Omar Bradley today for the military viewpoint.

The anti-trust lawyers previously defeated three times in different federal courts. "Killed their own case" against the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. at Dallas, A & P. will say in advertisements appearing in newspapers throughout the country this weekend. But this did not end the year-long campaign against A & P. According to the fourth advertisement in a series discussing previous unsuccessful attacks on the pioneer food chain by anti-trust lawyers, "The anti-trust lawyers were not satisfied with decisions against them by three federal judges. They still wanted to destroy A & P."

The advertisement tells how in 1944 the Dallas case based on allegations similar to those in the current suit to put A & P out of business had been thrown out of court by Federal Judge W. H. Atwell.

On appeal the ad says, the circuit court at New Orleans, although reinstating the indictment, agreed it was "vague and contained many allegations which were inflammatory." The court decided Judge Atwell "should protect A & P from these inflammatory allegations by striking them out." Judge Atwell struck these statements, the ad says, and instructed anti-trust lawyers to furnish specific charges instead of "vague generalities."

On February 26 while the judge was still waiting for his answer, and without any previous notice to him, the anti-trust lawyers gave a story to the newspapers in Washington, announcing that they were dropping the case in Dallas. In dropping the case, the anti-trust lawyers were quoted as saying they intended "to file a substantially similar suit in an appropriate jurisdiction at an early date." The "early date" proved to be the same day. A & P says in the advertisement, "As soon as one anti-trust lawyer killed the case in Dallas, another anti-trust lawyer filed a new case in Danville, Ill." the ad contin-

The Time The Anti-Trust Lawyers Killed Their Own Case!

For ten years the anti-trust lawyers have been attacking the business methods that make it possible to give the public the best quality food at the lowest prices.

In our last ad we told you how Federal Judge W. H. Atwell, at Dallas, threw the anti-trust lawyers and all their inflammatory charges against A&P right out of his court.

But the anti-trust lawyers were not satisfied with decisions against them by three federal judges.

They still wanted to destroy A&P.

They Appealed to New Orleans

So they appealed Judge Atwell's decision to the three-judge Circuit Court at New Orleans.

One of the three, Judge Curtis L. Waller, agreed with Judge Atwell that the case should be dismissed.

The other two members of the Circuit Court, Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson, Jr., and Judge Allen Cox, although saying the case should be tried, agreed that the indictment was vague and contained many allegations which were inflammatory.

They decided that Judge Atwell at Dallas should protect A&P from these inflammatory allegations and could order the anti-trust lawyers to supply the defendants with a bill of particulars.

So the case was back in Dallas again.

Judge Atwell, carrying out the decision of the Circuit Court, struck out the inflammatory matter.

He said that without this inflammatory and prejudicial matter the Grand Jury might never have returned the indictment.

Judge Atwell said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"There are many statements in the indictment which are not at all in violation, and are highly prejudicial and inflammatory."

The anti-trust lawyers objected. They advanced an amazing argument. They said that the removal of their inflammatory allegations (which all four judges had agreed did not belong in the indictment) destroyed their case.

Judge Atwell instructed the anti-trust lawyers to furnish the court with a bill of particulars. In short, he wanted specific charges instead of vague generalities. He set the deadline for furnishing this material at January 15th, 1944.

When the anti-trust lawyers twice asked for more time, pleading sickness among their staff, Judge Atwell extended the time to February 25th because he believed that they were honestly trying, in good faith, to prepare the material he had requested.

Actually, it developed, they were using the time to get ready to drop the case in Dallas and start it in another court.

They Quit in Dallas

On February 26th, while the judge was still waiting for his answer, and without any previous notice to him, the anti-trust lawyers gave a story to the newspapers in Washington, announcing that they were dropping the case in Dallas.

They said that it was their intention "to file a substantially similar suit in an appropriate jurisdiction at an early date."

The "early date" turned out to be the same day.

As soon as one anti-trust lawyer killed the case in Dallas, another anti-trust lawyer filed a new case in Danville, Illinois. This new case made most of the same allegations that had been made and dropped in Dallas; and that are being made against us today.

So now, according to the anti-trust lawyers, all four judges who had ruled on the Dallas case were wrong.

When Judge Atwell heard of their action he ordered the anti-trust lawyers to prepare an order for his signature dismissing the Dallas case.

In signing this order he said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"This nolle prosequi does not have the sanction or approval of this court. That is not necessary, nor that the government ask for the court's approval."

"It is, however, a matter that may be presented to the other court and may be of interest to the people at large."

So after their efforts to destroy A&P had failed in Washington, D. C., Wilson, North Carolina, and Dallas, Texas, the anti-trust lawyers moved on to Danville, Illinois.

They were still determined to destroy this company which had brought more and better food at lower cost to millions of American families.

They Were Wrong Three Times Before!

Three times the anti-trust lawyers went into federal courts and made serious and damaging charges against A&P.

Three times federal judges said the anti-trust lawyers were wrong and rendered decisions against them.

In previous ads in this series we told you about these other anti-trust "cases" involving us, which the judges said were not cases at all.

We think you should know about these previous cases, because once again the anti-trust lawyers are making damaging "allegations" that could seriously affect our business if they were believed by the public.

There was the time in Washington, D. C., when they said we and other good American citizens conspired to fix the price of bread in that city.

This was the time Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough ruled that A&P and the other defendants did not even need to put in a defense. He instructed the jury to bring in a verdict of "not guilty."

It was the time Judge Goldsborough said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"If you were to show this record to any experienced trial lawyer in the world, he would tell you that there was not any evidence at all."

"Honestly, I have never in my over forty years' experience seen tried a case that was as absolutely devoid of evidence as this. That is the honest truth. I have never seen one like it."

There was the time in Wilson, North Carolina, they said we and other good American citizens conspired to fix prices paid farmers for their potatoes.

This was the time Federal Judge C. C. Wyche directed the jury to bring in a verdict of "not guilty."

It was the time Judge Wyche said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"In my opinion there is no testimony produced from which it can reasonably be inferred that the defendants entered into a combination to depress or lower the price of potatoes."

"I might say that I never tried a case in my life where a greater effort, more work, more investigation had been done, combing almost with a fine-tooth comb to gather evidence."

"But, as was said a long time ago, you can't make brick without straw, and you can't make a case without facts."

There was the time in Dallas, Texas, when they made practically the same "allegations" they are making today.

This was the time Federal Judge W. H. Atwell ruled that the case should not even be tried. He said that the indictment contained inflammatory statements that he would not permit to be presented to a jury.

It was the time Judge Atwell said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"I know of no American rule, and I wish I had the power to underscore the word 'American,' which permits us to try a man because of his size."

"If I thought I was presiding over a court and that I might have to sentence some person because he was a great big fellow, or because he was a Lilliputian, I would feel like resigning. God knows we don't want it ever to occur in America that the size is going to determine whether a man is guilty or innocent."

MURIEL HALLECK ignored Alice determinedly and went on with her story.

"I tried to cope with young Rick, but his terror of the storm put him beyond reason. You saw how he acted the day he threw that tantrum."

Alice nodded and Muriel went on. "Finally I lost my temper. I remembered that ugly little whip. It had belonged to Brent's father, who used to raise dogs. I got it and—"

Again she paused as Alice squeezed her hand. Anyone but Muriel Halleck might have burst into tears.

"Honestly though, Alice," Muriel continued, "after the very first blow, I just tapped Rick. But that was enough to scare the poor child to death."

"Well, Brent heard the commotion and woke up in the middle of it. He came charging out of the bedroom. And, really, I thought for a moment he was going to kill me."

"He grabbed me and slung me back into our bedroom. That's how I got those awful bruises on my arm. I knew you didn't believe my story about banging in to something in the night."

Alice nodded, realizing that she had thought the bruises were further evidence of Brent's cruelty.

"Then I heard you come," Muriel was still speaking. "Afterwards Brent came into the room and hung the whip in my closet. He said—"

"I'd better keep it among my own things if I was so blasted fond of it. But until now I've let Brent take the rap. With you."

"It's all right now, Muriel," Alice said.

"Now it is, but it wasn't before. Don't you see, my dear? I just couldn't go off to California leaving you believe a rotten thing like that about Brent."

Muriel's head came up and she managed a smile. "I'm an ambitious, self-centered woman, Alice, but I'm not all bad."

Muriel rose and stood again by the door, ready to leave.

NO, Alice thought as she stood facing Muriel. She wasn't all bad. It had taken courage for her to come here today.

Alice said slowly: "I'm very glad you told me this, Muriel. And now I'm going to tell you something. I think you ought to go back to Brent and Rick."

Muriel shook her head decisively. "No. That's out of the question, Alice. I've tried to be very honest, I think about everything except that one disagreeable episode. But Brent and I have drifted apart for a long time. It started even during the war."

Alice recalled the local gossip at Tolliver that resulted from Brent's failure to return home on leaves and his getting assigned to occupation forces after the war.

"Maybe I'm to blame," Muriel said. "I admit to being cold-blooded. You have to be, if you want more than anything else, to get to the top of the world. But I also found that I had to be honest all the way around. That's the result of a good middle-class Indiana training, I suppose."

She sighed. Then she held out her hand. "Good luck, Alice," she said, with a trace of a smile. "I won't ask you what's going to happen next. Because keeping up this appalling honesty—or cold-bloodedness—of mine, it doesn't make the slightest difference in the world to me."

"Good luck to you, too, Muriel," Alice said, clasping the hand. "You're a brave woman."

After the handshake, Muriel Halleck turned and was gone. Alice Pine stood in the doorway for a moment and then she closed the door and locked it. She had to take time to think.
